

Appendix 1. Context list

In the following listing of contexts by houseblock and period, only those contexts with studied, datable artefacts are included in the charts for each house.

Period	Date	Contexts
1	Late Archaic	58, 142, 151, 152?, 153, 154, 159, 169?, 172?, 193, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 225, 226, 270, 282?, 285, 291, 299
1-2	Late Archaic but with some later material	233, 234, 235, 236, 237, (238, 239, 240 into 5th century BC)
	Late Archaic and Classical mix	12, 13, 50, 51, 140, 150, 158, 165, 166, 167, 168, 171, 192, 197, 198, 208, 209, 210, (266 has rare bits of early Hellenistic, but is predominantly this mix of Archaic and Classical), 279, 280, 281, 283, 290, 294?, 296
2	Classical	17, 18, 19, 267, 268, 269

	Early Hellenistic floor or near-floor level	11, 24, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 49, 56, 277, 278, 293
	Early Hellenistic	86, 87, 88, 190, 191, 230, 231, 232, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 274?, 275, 276, 288, 292, 295?, 297, 298, 304
4	Middle Hellenistic floor or near-floor levels	264, 265, bits of 266
	Middle Hellenistic	10, 14?, 16, 22, 23, 46, 47, 48, 52?, 53?, 54?, 55?, 206, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263
5	Late Hellenistic floor or near-floor level	9, 107, 108, 118, 119, 138, 139, 147, (157?), 188, 189, 205, 223
	Late Hellenistic	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7?, 8?, 15?, 20, 21, 26, 27, 28, 44, 45, 59, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 73, 74, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 83, 84, 85, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 100, 101, 103, 104, 105, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 143, 145, 146, 148, 149, (155, 156?), 160, 161, 163, 164, 170, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 194, 195, 196, 200, 202, 203, 204, 216, 219, 227, 228, 229, 271, 273, 284?, 286, 287, 300, 301, 302, 303, 306, 307, 308
6	Latest Hellenistic	25, 82, 98, 99, 102, 106, 131, 137, 144, 162, 199, 201, 218, 222

In the description of contexts that follows, the phrase “wide date range” after the period designation indicates a wide range of datable inventoried artefacts, generally objects dating to previous centuries from the period in question. Conversely, “narrow date range” indicates that the inventoried material spans no more than a century and often much less. It should be noted, however, that these descriptors are only valid in so far as characterizing the inventoried material. Even so this classification may prove useful for distinguishing those contexts in which there was a substantial amount of material from a narrow date range contrasted to those contexts where a wide range of material was available and sufficiently attractive for selection.

HOUSEBLOCK I

House I-1

All rooms assigned to this house were excavated only into the late Hellenistic fills.

Period	Date	Contexts
5	Late Hellenistic	1, 2, 3

ROOM 10

Context 1, I-1 R 10/1

Inv. 1985, 101-103 – yellow clay east of Wall 2 (12.25-11.25 m).

Inv. 1986, 320-327 – Room 10, dark yellow clay with grey clay and ash, depth 2.10 (no point of reference given).

Inv. 1986, 814-816 – grey clay in Room 10 (12.3-11.64 m). Late Hellenistic with wide range of dates.

HOUSEBLOCK II

House II-1

Neither room of this house is well preserved, but Room 156 seems to have primarily late Archaic fill, while Room 214 has 4th century fill.

Period	Date	Contexts
5	Late Hellenistic	6, 7

ROOM 156

Context 6, II-1 R 156/6

Inv. 1987, 165-182 – grey clay with yellow inclusions, north of Wall 122 (12.5-11.7 and 11.6-11.0 m)

Inv. 1987, 788-809 – yellow clay from an area described as between Basement 89 and an unnamed wall – it is not clear where this finds list was excavated (11.3-10.81). Possibly Archaic, possibly Classical with narrow range of dates. But due to the mouldmade bowl in the next context, this context is difficult to assign to a period.

C Red-figured pottery:

C-61 (Pl. 91) 87-790, 4th century BC

O Lamps:

O-33 87-788, late 6th to early 5th century BC

Context 7, II-1 R 156/7

Fill of yellow clay between Wall 122 and the border of the sector (11.17-10.0 m) could continue to some extent the area excavated earlier north of Wall 122. Possibly Archaic, possibly Classical, with narrow range of dates. But due to the mouldmade bowl, this context is difficult to assign to a period.

House II-3

In the one room of this house (Basement 89) with sufficient excavation records, there is a nearly 2 m thick mid- to late 3rd century fill over a floor at 9.83 m, with Classical and late Archaic fill under this floor. Basement 707 has primarily mid-3rd century or earlier fill; Basement 92 has similarly early Hellenistic fill but with some late Hellenistic above this (but only dated by a very few pieces). For these last two basements (92 and 707), however, very little material has been seen.

Period	Date	Contexts
4	Middle Hellenistic	10, 14?
3	Early Hellenistic floor or near-floor level	11
1-2	Late Archaic and Classical mix	12, 13

BASEMENT 89Context 10, II-3 B 89/10

Ashy clay, dark, with traces of burning (11.4-10.3 m). Middle Hellenistic, with narrow range of dates, though the dolphin coin expands that range somewhat.

The rooms here tend to offer various and scattered indications of their dates. Room 176 seems to have a phase of latest Hellenistic fill, but as elsewhere, this may be wash over from the late Hellenistic fill over the nearby Pavement 177. Room 243 only indicates late Classical use and filling.

BASEMENT 243

Context 17, II-4 B 243/17

Compact yellow clay fill (0.7 to 1.0 m depth, no reference point). Possible Classical fill.

House II-5

Rooms 294, 311, 390 and 451 include some levels of late Hellenistic material but for the most part the abandonment fills are mid-3rd century over an early 3rd century floors and sub-floor fills. No pure late Archaic fills were excavated here. In Rooms 311 and 294, the mid-3rd century fill covers bits of the walls, supporting an early Hellenistic construction date as indicated by the floor fills.

ROOM 294

Context 20, II-5 R 294/20

Removal of yellow clay, 11.2-11.1 m, exposing walls of the room. Late Hellenistic on account of the mouldmade bowl in Context 21; if this context then must date so late, the span of dates in the material is quite wide.

Yellow clay, western part of the basement, depth 0.0 to 0.2 m from tops of walls (no reference points). If this is late Hellenistic fill as may be indicated by the inventoried lamp, then it may be significant that this context and the earlier Context 26 both included late Hellenistic material and both are found in the western part of the room.

House II-6

Rooms 186 and 195 have primarily 3rd century fill; these cover late Archaic or 5th century BC fills. One possible piece of evidence for a construction date is a coin of ca. 210-200 BC from a trench fill associated with the east wall of Room 186. Since the bulk of the fills throughout this room are earlier than ca. 200 BC, however, this evidence is problematic. For Basement 195, the late 4th century fills immediately under the floors indicate a very early Hellenistic construction date.

Period	Date	Contexts
5	Late Hellenistic	44, 45, 59
4	Middle Hellenistic including abandonment fill	46, 47, 48, 52, 53, 54, 55
3	Early Hellenistic floor or near-floor levels	49, 56
	Very late 4th century construction fill	57
1-2	Late Archaic or 5th century mixed fill	50, 51, 58

Context 110, III-3 B 368/110

Removal of deeper fill along Wall 323, continuing under the level of the lowest course of the wall, grey clay with ash and charcoal, 9.48-9.26 m. There is some ambiguity in the documentation here as to whether this context actually ran under the wall itself or simply within the room but continuing below the level of the lowest course of the wall. Classical or early Hellenistic, but not enough datable material is inventoried to be sure.

HOUSEBLOCK IV

House IV-1

The rooms in this house have deep late Hellenistic fills and some in situ occupation fills (floor of Room 253); in one room there is mixed fill including material as late as the 4th century, but in most areas the lower fills are late Archaic.

Period	Date	Contexts

BASEMENT 257Context 155, IV-1 B 257/155

Yellow clay with ash, 11.1-10.7 m. May belong to late Hellenistic period despite much earlier material, but such a late date is based on the high elevation and the presence of the one piece of late West Slope decorated pottery in Context 156. Otherwise the latest fills in this room appear to date to the early Hellenistic period.

Described in the finds lists as “under the floor”, but the level and specific exposure of this floor is not recorded, the pieces inventoried and listed in the notebook here were found by illicit excavation between the 1989 and 1990 seasons apparently lowering the area from 9.4 to 9.2 m. It seems likely that this interim excavation removed the transition between latest Hellenistic fill and late Archaic levels.

This context combines a series of sondages continuing the deeper excavation in the eastern part of the room described above (Context 181), bringing the level of the rest of the room below the level of 1.0 m below ground level. The depth measurements here span 1.0 to 1.75 m below ground level, so these sondages likely bring the level of the room close to ca. 9.0 m elevation. Late Hellenistic, wide date range.

Described as the removal of fill “between the floors”. If the hearth excavated at 1.5 to 1.6 m depth marked on floor, the stopping point of the preceding contexts at 1.9 m depth may mark the second floor. It is just possible that 1.5/1.6 m depth marked the top of a pile of ash and mud brick of a hearth that rested at the 1.9 or 2.0 m depth – note that ash continued down under the area where the hearth was excavated. Yellow clay level with ash, possibly continuing in the southwest corner, but this is not clear in the notebook. Since excavation is next recorded in each corner starting from 10.0 m it seems likely that this context takes the entire room down to that level. 10.45-10.0 m. Late Hellenistic, largely narrow date range, though the coins are much earlier.		Dark grey clay layer below the floor level, 9.65-9.55. Given the elevation of this context and the finds in preceding and subsequent contexts, the one fragment of late Hellenistic pottery is very conceivably intrusive, left over from excavation of upper levels. Early Hellenistic.

PAVEMENT 339

This pavement is near Room 383. For this and the other pavements in this area there does not seem to be enough material here for any degree of reliability in the phasing of these contexts.

Context 216, IV-3 P 339/216

Clearing and removal of pavement, perhaps around 11.6 m but this is estimated from the next context. Late Hellenistic.

HOUSE IV-4

Late Hellenistic abandonment fill down to floor levels; early Hellenistic fill immediately under the floors, and then generally late Archaic fill.

Period	Date	Contexts
5	Late Hellenistic	218, 219, 222, 227, 228
	Late Hellenistic Floor or near-floor contexts	223
3	Early Hellenistic construction	(220?), 221, 224 (though this has one stamp of the early 2nd century)
1	Late Archaic but with some later material	225, 226

BASEMENT 35 I

This is the larger area over Basement 392 including Walls 350 and 338. The two rooms are combined in this list so that the levels are reported in their proper stratigraphic order.

Context 218, IV-4 B 351/218

Series of yellow clay strata, some with charcoal and organic material: level east of Wall 338 (11.1-11.0 m), (10.5-10.2 m), and over level of western door (9.7-9.5 m). There are no significant differences among the strata in terms of the dates of the finds, so this appears to be a single late Hellenistic fill, with narrow date range and a minority of Classical material mixed in.

Context 240, V Earth-dwelling 445/240

The first series of numbers here refers to excavation of a grey clay and ash stratum at the top level of the walls of Earth-dwelling 445 but south of the structure itself. In other words, this may be fill cut into by the builders of the earth-dwelling. No elevations are recorded for this list. The second list continues this same stratum down from the top level of the walls still to the south of the earth-dwelling, 9.0-8.56 m. Archaic.

HOUSEBLOCK VI

This is a poorly defined area primarily referring to the pocket of fill in “Room 591” whose fills consist of late Hellenistic levels and (not well distinguished from that) other late Classical fill.

ROOM 59 I

Context 241, VI R 591/241

The first list of numbers pertains to the removal of grey clay over a depth 0.6 to 1.0 m, but the point of reference is not indicated. The second series of numbers continues this same excavation from 1.0 to 1.8 m. Although there is no record a change in the nature of the fill from above to below 1.0 m, the datable material in the lower fill is consistently late Classical while the upper fill appears to combine late Hellenistic (narrow date range) with a clear Archaic component.

Inv. 1994, 676-678 – grey clay, 1.1-1.2 m.

Inv. 1994, 752-773 – grey clay recorded as 0.5 to 0.75 m depth from the top of Wall 414 whose elevation is recorded as 11.4 m, hence this particular finds list comes from 10.9 to 10.6 m elevation, but it is not at all clear whether this is above or below those listed earlier. Middle Hellenistic fills, wide date range.

 Fill consisting of grey clay with yellow inclusions and charcoal and ash, 9.8-9.0 m. Very early Classical, narrow date range for the inventoried material and yet the fill must date to the early Hellenistic period or later since the elevations of this context and the next indicate that this pit was cut into early Hellenistic fill.

Clearing of eastern niche bounded by Walls 413 and 377, grey clay, 0.0-0.8 m depth from top of Wall 413 (=11.85 m), elevation converts to 11.85-11.05 m. With only one datable object from nearly a meter of fill, it seems risky to assign this to a period based on this piece. Given the middle Hellenistic dates of the material around this niche, the best date for this fill may be middle Hellenistic.

Context 265, VI-2 B 395a/265

Ash layer under tiles, but now being measured from a different datum point, the top of Wall 413, which is recorded as 11.85 m; the depth of this ash layer is given as 1.2-1.37 m from the top of Wall 413, and this converts to 10.65-10.48 m. Although these numbers indicate a higher elevation than the preceding, this difference may be simply the result of minor errors in converting these depth measurements to elevations. Middle Hellenistic, wide date range.

Not seen: 94-709 (arrow-shaped coin), 94-710 (dolphin; late 5th century BC?), 94-711 (late 5th century BC?)

Context 266, VI-2 B 395a/266

Inv. 1994, 729-742 – appears to be exposure of a floor level, 2.0-2.25 m, the point of reference seems to be the top of Wall 379 again, 12.5 m, so this floor level would be 10.25 m, essentially under the tile collapse just removed.

Inv. 1994, 774-776 – removal of floor level but no elevation recorded. Middle Hellenistic, wide date range.

Context 284, VI-3 R 495/284

Grey clay east of Wall 486, below level of upper part of north end of the wall down to the base of the wall, 9.2-8.86 m. With so little material, yet spanning such a wide range of dates, from Archaic to late Hellenistic, there may be quite a few different periods represented here. What is present, though, is certainly a late Hellenistic fill of very wide date range.
